About the Speaker

Bryan Davis

Bryan Davis is the Senior Editor of the Education Division of Knowledge Services at Progress Software Corp. In this role, Bryan edits all training materials written for the Progress suite of products, from classroom and self-paced training to that delivered via the Web. He also oversees the production of course materials with print vendors and maintains the Education Division's presence on Progress' website and the company's intranet. Bryan also is responsible for archiving training material and updating the department's writing and style guides used by the course development staff.

He lives in Fitchburg, Mass., with his wife, Kelley, and their son, Joey.

About the Entertainment

The BossTunes

The BossTunes have represented the Boston Chapter at the STC Annual Conference's "Open Jam" for the last 3 years in Dallas, Baltimore, and Seattle. All are members of the Boston Chapter, and founded the group since they have a mutual interest in musical performance, and well, things just got out of hand.

Anna V. Pratt

Anna always thought that the musicals were true—people burst into song with every emotion! To maintain that fantasy, Anna sings in the car, in parish shows, and in church. She performed in France, and in Austria and Italy with two exceptional choirs. She is happily keeping the dream alive with the BossTunes!

Hans Fenstermacher

Hans's first stage role was in utero, while his mother sang "Madame Butterfly" at the Munich Opera. Not content to be neither seen nor heard, he later appeared at the Deutsche Oper Berlin as a street urchin in "Carmina Burana," a waiter in "Der Rosenkavalier," and (no email, please) a little girl in "La Bohème." In high school, Hans was a member of the barbershop quartet in "The Music Man," a role he reprised recently with the Pentucket Players, with whom he also played Enoch Snow in "Carousel" while his wife, Janet, was in the pits (orchestra, that is, playing viola). Hans is delighted to be a co-founder of the BossTunes, and is thinking about quitting his day job.

Steve Jong

In some alternate universe, Steven is a professional singer. In this universe, Steve sang in the Massachusetts All-State Music Festival, the Boston University Freshman Chorus, the Billerica Men's Choir, and the DECarolers. Steve is currently a member of the Westford Chorus, where he has soloed in Gounod's "St. Cecilia" Mass and sung the role of Narrator in P.D.Q. Bach's "Seasonings," Frederic in Gilbert & Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance," and Antonio in Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro." This spring he will participate in the Chorus's production of "Carmen."

Taryn Light

Taryn traveled twice to Austria, Germany, and Switzerland singing with an American choir and is planning a trip to England, Scotland, Wales, and Poland with the same group next year. She participated in shows with the Merrimack Valley Chorale and the Acton Community Chorus. Taryn also sings on the Worship Team at her church. In the Boss-Tunes, Taryn is also a lyricist, costume designer/seamstress, and a rockin', soulful Go-Go Girl.

Rich Maggiani

As a teenager, Rich surreptitiously learned to play the drums by secretly playing his older brother's set. He played gigs with various bands in high school and college. STC rekindled Rich's interest in playing. He is a founder of the Vermont Chapter, and of STC's resident band, The Rough Drafts. He began playing again in earnest at the conference in Nashville, and backed up the BossTunes at several Open Jams. Rich is now a highly sought-after drummer across the northeast, although he confines his playing to mostly private parties.

Val Rushanan

Val began banging on the piano and turning the pages at the age of 6 months. As a teenager, she learned to play clarinet in a closet, and sang alto with Youth Pro Musica. She narrowly avoided majoring in Music, deciding she'd rather eat. Val is the Music Director/Choreographer of the BossTunes. This year, she calls upon her childhood dance classes and other lessons learned from the likes of Mae West, Cyd Charisse, and Jessica Rabbit.
